Spirit Cruises | It's Showtime | The Deco Art Deco Building

On the cover—Muller House Museum in Plaza Park is operated by the San Pedro Bay Historical Society and it certainly does have a lot of history. It was the family home of a ship builder. This month you'll have an extra chance to experience Muller House for the Annual Wine Taste on Saturday, July 27. For information visit www.SanPedroBayHistoricalSociety.org.

Read about many of the historical attractions in the San Pedro area in the article beginning on page 3.

Experience local artists in a stunning Art Deco penthouse at the San Pedro Arts District Summer Soiree & Art Sale. It begins at 3:30 p.m. and is the major arts event of the summer. This year it honors Ron Linden and Arnee and Ray Carofano and featuring food, live music, juried art sales, and silent auction. Deco Art Deco Penthouse, 741 S. Pacific Avenue, Uptown Pacific Avenue. ## Dining

Food from around the world

San Pedro Cafe, at 605 S. Pacific Avenue, is well-known (and well-loved) for breakfast and lunch. And now it's open for dinner Thursday through Sunday with a full menu that includes Croatian specialties like cabbage rolls and cro-mo (Croatian mostaccioli). It's right in the middle of Uptown Pacific Avenue and it's well worth a visit. www.WeLoveSPC.com.

It's hard to know where to start with Babouch Moroccan Cuisine. It brings an exotic and international flair to fun. That's where you'll find belly dancing. There's happy hour—and on Tuesdays it lasts all evening with drink and appetizer specials. The dinners are amazing with fresh, authentic ingredients masterfully prepared. It's convenient to all of San Pedro and the Peninsula at 810 S. Gaffey Street, San Pedro. 310-831-0246, www.BabouchMoroccan.com

And you'll feel like you've traveled to France when you dine at La Bouvette Wine Bistro. Newly-opened and already a hot spot. Find out why at 335 W. 7th Street, Downtown. 424-342-9840, www.LaBuvetteBistro.com

Nightlife

Jazz, jazz, and more jazz at The Whale & Ale, 327 W. 7th Street. On Friday nights you can hear The Paul Gormley Trio. On Saturday nights, Markus Carlton plays beautiful jazz guitar in the pub. Check it out at www.WhaleAndAle.com.

If you want a real San Pedro experience, definitely make it a point to visit Godmother's Saloon at 301 W. 7th Street, on the corner of Centre Street, Downtown. Music many nights. Nice people and fun times every night.

There's late night fun at San Pedro Brewing Company. Fridays are game night. And every Saturday is late night music. Sometimes a live local band and sometimes a hot DJ. It's at 331 W. 6th Street, Downtown. Call 310-831-5663 or visit www.SanPedroBrewing.com.

Discover This Month

SS Lane Victory

If you like history, you'll find lots of it at the SS Lane Victory ship museum.

Lane Victory is a World War II-era Victory ship that was built in San Pedro.

Today it is a museum and living monument to the men who served in the United States Merchant Marine from World War II through Vietnam, when the ship carried personnel and supplies that were vital to the war effort.

The two cargo holds have a range of exhibits that tell the Merchant Marine story, as well as the history of Victory ships and Los Angeles Harbor. Most of the ship is original and you can see actual berths that the mariners used, as well as the guns used to protect the ship by the Navy Guard. Patriotism in action.

Visit at Berth 49, 3011 Miner Street, Waterfront.

www.TheLaneVictory.org

Discover History All Around You

Throughout the San Pedro region

Everywhere you Turn, San Pedro, the Harbor, Peninsula, and Catalina offer a lot of history. Well-preserved history. And, fortunately, the history in the area lives, with historically accurate restoration and knowledgeable docents and historical professionals.

The history you see in San Pedro and on the Peninsula are new, dating roughly from 1542 when Juan Cabrillo from Portugal discovered San Pedro Bay for the Spanish.

But there are remnants of the ancient native people who lived and fished here and estimated 3,500 years ago. These are the Tongva people and evidence of their history can be found at the Los Angeles Unified School District Science Center and at Machado Lake in nearby Harbor City.

And you'll find well-preserved examples of Civil War, Victorian, Art Deco, and later forms of architecture.

Just do a little exploring and you'll find yourself in another era.

Muller House Museum

It's a real living piece of San Pedro history. Muller House Museum (featured on this month's cover) was built in 1899 for the Mahar family of Wilmington, but they chose not to move in. So shipbuilder William Muller purchased it in 1901 for his growing family.

It's open on the first and third Sundays of each month from 1-4 p.m. with the last tour at 3:15 p.m.

And you can see how a shipbuilder lived in the early 20th Century.

Pt. Fermin Lighthouse

The Pt. Fermin Lighthouse, built in 1874, was the first navigational light into San Pedro Bay, although people had been trying to get the government to build one since 1854.

The lighthouse was designed in Stick Style Victorian, a style used in six lighthouses along the California coast. Pt. Fermin's first lighthouse keepers were women, Mary and Ella Smith.

It has been completely restored and volunteers from the Point Fermin Lighthouse Society serve as tour guides and help to keep the lighthouse open to the public for tours Tuesday through Sunday 1-4 p.m. Volunteers also maintain the gardens around the lighthouse with many heirloom plants and flowers.

SS Lane Victory

The Lane Victory is a World War II-era Merchant Marine vessel built in 1945 in San Pedro. Today she is a museum on the LA Waterfront and open for tours. The Merchant Marine suffered the greatest percentage of casualties during World War II of any group facing combat.

They were responsible for transporting the personnel, munitions, and food not just for the military effort, but to help U.S. allies survive.

And Lane Victory has a proud record of achievement from World War II through the Vietnam War, including its evacuation of thousands during the Korean War.

Today, you can visit throughout the ship, with an extensive museum that also includes exhibits about other Merchant Marine ships and Los Angeles Harbor.

Ft. MacArthur Museum

Angel's Gate Park is located on what was formerly the Upper Reservation of Ft. MacArthur. The fort was named in honor of Lt. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, Civil War Medal of Honor recipient and father of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

It was originally a coastal defense site, with big guns to fire shells miles across the ocean at incoming threats.

And the museum sponsors two big events every year. The Ft. MacArthur Open House will include military reenactors from the 20th Century on July 13 from 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Every February the museum sponsors the Great Los Angeles Air Raid reenactment. There's a USO-type show and reenactors from the World War II era—and they're all interrupted by the attack of enemy aircraft.

Los Angeles Maritime Museum

The Los Angeles Maritime Museum is housed in the former cross-channel ferry building that served as the western terminus of the service between San Pedro and Terminal Island.

The ferry terminal was built in 1941 as a federal public works project. It is Streamline Moderne architecture. The ferry served the many Naval personnel, cannery workers, fishermen, and others who wanted the quickest way across the channel. The alternative, since the Vincent Thomas Bridge had not yet been built, was a long and generally slow route through San Pedro, Wilmington, and Long Beach.

The museum will be closing in September for two years while construction takes place around it, but the staff and volunteers will work on refurbishing exhibits and the 78-year-old ferry terminal that houses it.

Downtown San Pedro Historic Harbor District

Just above the old Ferry Building, toward Downtown San Pedro, is a structure officially named the City of Los Angeles Municipal Office Building. But everyone knows it as San Pedro City Hall. San Pedro is actually a part of the City of Los Angeles.

Construction began on this seven-story Beaux Arts building in 1927. At 112 feet high, it is the tallest and one of the most recognizable structures in San Pedro. The seventh floor housed a jail that was nicknamed, "7th Heaven," which is open for visitors.

It's home to the San Pedro Bay Historical Society Archives, which you can visit.

On the Harbor Blvd. side of the building is Old Fire Station 36, a Los Angeles Fire Department museum that is open on Saturdays from 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Warner Grand Theatre

Up 6th Street just before Pacific Avenue is the Warner Grand Theatre, a truly grand movie palace from 1931. When film mogul Jack Warner dedicated the theater, he told the assembled audience that it was, “the palace of your dreams.”

The Warner Grand Theatre is a carefully-preserved example of Art Deco. The ceiling in the theater’s auditorium is made of hand-carved wood and there are many other lavish design elements.

The theater hosts film festivals—including the San Pedro International Film Festival and LA Harbor International Film Festival—each year, concerts, live performances, the San Pedro City Ballet, Long Beach Opera, Golden State Pops Orchestra, and many other events throughout the year.

Banning Museum

The Banning Museum is a faithfully restored 23-room residence built in 1864 for Gen. Phineas Banning, founder of the port at Wilmington. He built the elegant structure to demonstrate his confidence in the future of the community and the Union in the midst of the Civil War.

The residence is an outstanding example of domestic Greek Revival architecture, with 18 rooms open to the public.

On the grounds of the residence, which is in the midst of a 20-acre park, are also the Stagecoach Barn and Gardens.

A visitor center, which originally served as a schoolhouse, is a welcoming point and provides information, along with the starting place for the guided tours by highly trained docents.

Drum Barracks

California played a bigger role in the Civil War than many people realize. The Drum Barracks Civil War Museum is housed in the last remaining wooden building of a Civil War-era military facility. Drum Barracks, which was first called Camp Drum, served as the main staging, training, and supply base for military operations in the Southwest, and occupied approximately 60 acres of land with an additional 37 acres near the harbor.

San Pedro's Hearst Castle Connection

The noted architect Julia Morgan, who was instrumental in the development of William Randolph Hearst’s magnificent ranch in San Simeon, California, also designed a series of local YWCA buildings, including the Harbor Area YWCA at 437 W. 9th Street, just south of San Pedro’s Historic Downtown, and it is still in use by the Y today.

Catalina Island: 8,000 Years of History

Juan Cabrillo was the first European to find Catalina Island, in 1542 and the day after he found San Pedro. It’s thought that Native Americans lived there much longer, as long as 8,000 years.

Since the island was discovered, it’s created a lot of history. There was ranching, mining, military operations, and smuggling. William Wrigley, Jr., the chewing gum executive and owner of the Chicago Cubs professional baseball team bought the island and the team held spring training there from 1921 to 1951.

And he built the Avalon Casino, which has nothing to do with gambling, but everything to do with films, live performances, events, and great architecture.

You can find lots of information about the history of the island from the Catalina Island Museum and all the information you need to visit from the Catalina Island Chamber of Commerce & Visitors Bureau and from Catalina Express.

See Christine West’s article on the next page about her experience on Catalina Island.

Find a Lot of History on Catalina Island

From the native Tongva people to the Cubs and beyond

By Christine West

Just a short hour and 15 minute ferry ride away from the hustle and bustle of the Greater Los Angeles area is Catalina Island, rich with local history, beautiful views, and delicious food to boot. The Wrigley Mansion, also known as Mt. Ada, named for the wife of famed William Wrigley, Jr., of Wrigley chewing gum, is Catalina's only Forbes Travel Guide 4-star hotel and a delightful place to have lunch and relax. The six-bedroom home turned destination hotel was built in 1921 atop a mountain to ensure it was the first and last residence in Avalon to be lit by the sun. The Wrigleys built the home just two years after Wrigley Jr. purchased Catalina Island in 1919. They continued to visit the island at least twice a year together until Mr. Wrigley's death in 1932. With stunning views of the Catalina Casino, harbor, and coastline, the home also once boasted views of the Chicago Cubs Spring Training field, which Mr. Wrigley insisted he be able to watch with a telescope from his home office.

Mr. and Mrs. Wrigley traveled by following the sunshine, staying at Mt. Ada primarily in the spring. The "L" shaped mansion was open for tours in the 1960s until the home was donated to the University of Southern California for use as a Marine Science Center. In 1985, Mt. Ada once again became a place to entertain. In the summer months it is open to the public daily for lunch between the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. with a prix fixe menu of $62 (including alcoholic or non-alcoholic beverages,) three courses and top-notch service. Reservations are required and can be made by calling 310-510-2030 or emailing mtada@scico.com. You do not need to be a hotel guest to dine at the mansion. The Mt. Ada menu includes a starter, featuring fresh seasonal foods such as Dungeness Crab Cakes and Snap Pea and Asian Pear Salad, an entrée with vegetarian, seafood, chicken and beef options, and three options for dessert. Beverage choices include mimosas, wine, beer or soft drinks. The outdoor patio offers stunning views nearly 400 feet above the Pacific Ocean, a diner's paradise.

Upon arriving to the hotel by taxi (a $14 ride) you are welcomed into the mansion's foyer and encouraged to look around and enjoy the living room, sunroom, dining area, and outdoor patio. The upstairs is reserved for hotel guests only. The staff is knowledgeable about the mansion's history and eager to share with guests the beauty that Mt. Ada has to offer. There is a shuttle service drop off back down the mountain once you are done dining.

The Catalina Island Museum, located within walking distance of the ferry terminal, is another must-see for anyone interested in the island's rich history or its ties to the Wrigley family. The museum is hosting an exhibit called Wrigley's Catalina: A Centennial Celebration until January 19, 2020, featuring historical items such as floor plans and menus from the Avalon Casino, architectural plans for Wrigley Field Avalon, programs for the Catalina Open Golf Tournament, and more. The museum features a permanent installation detailing the history of the island and displaying artifacts such as mortars and pestles, abalone fishhooks, harpoons, spearheads and other cooking utensils and currency used by the Native Tongva people who inhabited the island before the arrival of Spanish explorers in the 16th century. There is also a permanent installation of Catalina Clay Products which made tiles for Mr. Wrigley's building projects and decorative and functional objects for the home such as vases and bowls, now collector's items, all from clay found on the island.

Currently the museum features two exhibits by artist Elizabeth Turk. The first, Tipping Point, houses an impressive interactive sculpture of extinct birds. The second, Echoes of Extinction, features sculptures of sonograms of endangered or extinct birds. This interactive exhibit includes QR codes which you can photograph to learn more about each featured species.

Museum admission is $17 for adults, $15 for seniors, students with ID, and military. Children (15 and under) receive free admission with a paid adult admission. The museum is open 10 am – 5 pm daily.

Find Your Way Around LA

It's one of the biggest cities in the world. And there's a lot to see, but Los Angeles can be surprisingly easy to get around in.

Thanks to the Metro transportation system, you can get from San Pedro to places as far apart as Universal Studios and the San Gabriel Valley.

One of the best ways to start your trip from San Pedro is to get on the Metro Silver Line Express bus. Easiest stops are on Beacon Street or Pacific Avenue. It will take you to Downtown Los Angeles in less than an hour. No parking hassles. And the fare is generally about $1.75.

There's also local DASH buses to take you around San Pedro and to Western Avenue (50 cents). Palos Verdes Peninsula Transit Authority buses serve the Peninsula. Commuter Express takes you to Long Beach for $1.50. Find it all at www.Metro.net

New to San Pedro? Thinking About a Move?

The San Pedro area is a great place to live with its world renown climate, good schools, and public services. The area offers a range of communities and amenities.

Many new housing developments are under construction and many more are set to begin over the next several years. They offer urban living, single family homes, and many other options.

It also has an outstanding selection of existing homes, most architecturally distinctive and many with great histories.

This area has always been welcoming to military members and families who come to the San Pedro area. With its great military heritage, the San Pedro area has a history and great affection and respect for all branches of service.

Visit San Pedro has prepared a Welcome to San Pedro publication that details contact information for important services new residents need, whether you're here for a short term or this is your new home. The publication is available on the www.VisitSanPedro.org website.

It includes contacts for all the utility companies and essential services you will need to get settled. It also includes contacts for Mariners visiting the area's marinas.
