Music by the Sea

Music by the Sea is a family-friendly weekly concert series happening every Sunday throughout the month. It's now in its 10th year, so you know it's a San Pedro favorite event. Local rock bands play the vintage stage in Pt. Fermin Park. There's plenty of fun for the children, too. The festivities start at noon. Pt. Fermin Park is located at 807 Paseo del Mar on the Peninsula, right at the end of Gaffey Street. Check it out on Facebook or at www.MusicByTheSea.rocks

Nightlife

The Paul Gormley Trio brings jazz standards from Frank Sinatra to Antonio Carlos Jobim and many others to Downtown San Pedro every Friday evening beginning at 7. At the Whale & Ale British Restaurant and Pub, 327 W. 7th Street Downtown. 310-832-0363. www.WhaleAndAle.com.

The spot for good times. Very good times. That's Godmother's Saloon at 301 W. 7th Street, on the corner of Centre Street, Downtown. This old-school bar is known for its great selection of beers, great music, friendly people, friendly place. Give it a try and you'll be back.

Looking for something to do late? Then drop by San Pedro Brewing Company, 331 W. 6th Street, Downtown. It has what you're looking for with its late night music every Friday and Saturday from 10 p.m.-1 a.m. Of course, it also has award-winning beers and great food. www.SanPedroBrewing.com

Nelson's Sound Series at Terranea offers music, food, and views every Friday and Saturday from 6-10 p.m. Nelsons, Terranea Resort, 100 Terranea Way, Rancho Palos Verdes, Peninsula. www.Terranea.com

Dining

Brunch: Most Important Meal of the Week
Ports O' Call Waterfront Dining has the very best buffet brunch in the whole area. Mountains of food and free-flowing sparkling wine at 1200 Nagoya Way, Ports O' Call Village, Waterfront. 310-833-3553. www.PortsOCallDining.com.

The Admiral Risty is known for serving truly outstanding food in a beautiful setting overlooking the ocean. But beyond the great looks, it's also got entertainment six nights a week and a wonderful Sunday brunch. Admiral Risty is at 31250 Palos Verdes Drive West, Rancho Palos Verdes 310-377-0050.

22nd Street Landing Seafood Grill & Bar—Great views over the marina and a classic brunch at your table with great service and simply wonderful food. Best seafood in the South Bay at 141-A W. 22nd Street, Cabrillo Marina, San Pedro Waterfront. 310-548-4400.

Terranea Resort—California's finest oceanfront resort also has amazing brunch choices, whether it's at mar'sel overlooking the Pacific or Catalina Kitchen, you'll find what you want. 100 Terranea Way, Rancho Palos Verdes, Peninsula. 866-802-8200, www.Terranea.com

The Arts

The Summer Soiree & Art Sale is always a great event. The Deco Art Deco Building will be the site of the annual San Pedro Waterfront Arts District's big event. Sunday, July 15 from 3:30-6 p.m. you'll be treated to exquisite food, Champagne, fine art, and music by the Alex Smith Trio. And it's also about appreciating the work of Eugene & Anne Olsen Daub.

It will take place in the Art Deco Penthouse Loft so this is a great opportunity to not only see one of San Pedro's finest vintage buildings up close, but to also experience the elegance of the Art Deco era.

Tickets are $55 in advance and $70 at the door. For information, call George or Patti at 310-351-0070.

San Pedro | LA Harbor | Peninsula | Catalina Alive with History

Everywhere you Turn, San Pedro, the Harbor, Peninsula, and Catalina offer a lot of history. Well-preserved history. And, fortunately, the history in the area lives, with historically-accurate restoration and knowledgeable docents and historical professionals.

Juan Cabrillo from Portugal discovered San Pedro Bay for the Spanish in 1542.

But there are remnants of the ancient native people who lived and fished here an estimated 3,500 years ago. These are the Tongva people and evidence of their history can be found at the Los Angeles Unified School District Science Center and at Machado Lake in nearby Harbor City.

And you'll find well-preserved examples of Civil War, Victorian, Art Deco, and later forms of architecture.

Just do a little exploring and you'll find yourself in another era.

Pt. Fermin Lighthouse

The Pt. Fermin Lighthouse, built in 1874, was the first navigational light into San Pedro Bay, although the people had been trying to get the government to build one since 1854.

The lighthouse was designed in Stick Style Victorian, a style used in six lighthouses along the California coast. Pt. Fermin's first lighthouse keepers were women, Mary and Ella Smith.

It has been completely restored and volunteers from the Point Fermin Lighthouse Society serve as tour guides and help to keep the lighthouse open to the public for tours Tuesday through Sunday 1-4 p.m. Volunteers also maintain the gardens around the lighthouse with many heirloom plants and flowers.

SS Lane Victory

The Lane Victory, pictured on the cover, is a World War II-era Merchant Marine vessel built in 1945 in San Pedro. Today she is a museum on the LA Waterfront and open for tours. The Merchant Marine suffered the greatest percentage of casualties during World War II of any group facing combat.

They were responsible for transporting the personnel, munitions, and food not just for the military effort, but to help U.S. allies survive.

And Lane Victory has a proud record of achievement from World War II through the Vietnam War, including its evacuation of thousands during the Korean War.

Today, you can visit throughout the ship, with an extensive museum that also includes exhibits about other Merchant Marine ships and Los Angeles Harbor.

Downtown San Pedro Historic Harbor District

Just above the old Ferry Building, toward Downtown San Pedro, is a structure officially named the City of Los Angeles Municipal Office Building. But everyone knows it as San Pedro City Hall. San Pedro has a part of the City of Los Angeles since 1909.

Construction began on this seven-story Beaux Arts building in 1927. At 112 feet high, it is one of the tallest and most recognizable structures in San Pedro. The seventh floor housed a jail that was nicknamed, "7th Heaven," which is open for visitors.

On the Harbor Blvd. side of the building is Old Fire Station 36, a Los Angeles Fire Department museum that is open on Saturdays from 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Warner Grand Theatre

Up 6th Street just before Pacific Avenue is the Warner Grand Theatre, a truly grand movie palace from 1931. When film mogul Jack Warner dedicated the theater, he told the assembled audience that it was, "the palace of your dreams."

The Warner Grand Theatre is a carefully-preserved example of Art Deco. Much of the restoration is thanks to the Grand Vision Foundation. The ceiling in the theater's auditorium is made of hand-carved wood and there are many other lavish design elements.

The theater hosts three film festivals—including the San Pedro International Film Festival and LA Harbor International Film Festival—each year, concerts, live performances, the San Pedro City Ballet, Long Beach Opera, Golden State Pops Orchestra, and many other events throughout the year.

Angel's Gate Park: Ft. MacArthur Museum and Angels Gate Cultural Center

Angel's Gate Park is located on what was formerly the Upper Reservation of Ft. MacArthur. The fort was named in honor of Lt. General Arthur MacArthur, Civil War Medal of Honor recipient and father of General Douglas MacArthur.

It was originally a coastal defense site, with big guns to fire shells miles across the ocean at incoming threats.

The history of the facility from 1914 to 1974 lives on at the Ft. MacArthur Museum, which is located in the corridors in the cliffs that were originally part of coastal defense batteries. It has exhibits and displays detailing the military and civil defense of the Los Angeles area.

And the museum sponsors two big events every year. Old Ft. MacArthur Days is a living history and military reenactment event held every July at Angels Gate Park. This year it will be held July 7 and 8 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

Every February the museum sponsors the Great Los Angeles Air Raid reenactment. There's a USO-type show and reenactors from the World War II era—and they're all interrupted by the attack of enemy aircraft.

Angels Gate Cultural Center

It would be hard to find a more peaceful use of a former military base than Angels Gate Cultural Center. It's housed in vintage wooden barracks from Ft. MacArthur's time as an active installation.

It's like an arts village with space for 52 artists to work. And it's got extensive gallery space for community engagement through arts education, exhibitions of contemporary art, and cultural events.

The year-round schedule of activities includes gallery exhibitions and community classes. The artists represent nearly every genre, including musicians, ceramists, painters, sculptors, writers, photographers, printmakers and jewelers.

Banning Residence Museum

The Banning Museum is a carefully preserved 23-room residence built in 1864 for Gen. Phineas Banning, founder of the port at Wilmington. He built the elegant structure to demonstrate his confidence in the future of the community and the Union in the midst of the Civil War.

The residence is an outstanding example of domestic Greek Revival architecture in Southern California with 18 rooms open to the public.

On the grounds of the residence, which is in the midst of a 20-acre park, are also the Stagecoach Barn and Gardens.

A visitor center, which originally served as a schoolhouse, is a welcoming point and provides information, along with the starting place for the guided tours by highly-trained docents.

Drum Barracks

California played a bigger role in the Civil War than many people realize. The Drum Barracks Civil War Museum is housed in the last remaining wooden building of a Civil War-era military facility. It was originally the Union Army headquarters in the Southwest (Southern California and the Arizona Territory) from 1861-1871. Drum Barracks, which was first called Camp Drum, served as the main staging, training, and supply base for military operations in the Southwest, and occupied approximately 60 acres of land with an additional 37 acres near the harbor.

Catalina Island: 8,000 Years of History

It's believed Juan Cabrillo was the first European to find Catalina Island, in 1542, the day after he found San Pedro. But it's thought that Native Americans lived there much longer, as long as 8,000 years.

Since the island was discovered, it's created a lot of history. William Wrigley, Jr., the chewing gum executive and owner of the Chicago Cubs professional baseball team bought the island, and the team held spring training there from 1921 to 1951.

And he built the Avalon Casino, which has nothing to do with gambling, but everything to do with films, live performances, events, and great architecture.

It used to take more than two hours to get there on the Big White

Steamers, the SS Catalina and SS Avalon, But today it takes just about an hour on the fast boats run by Catalina Express.

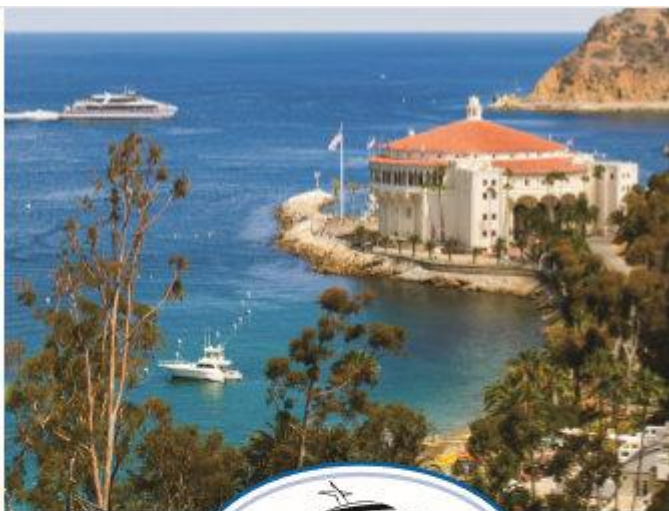

You can find lots of information about the history of the island from the Catalina Island Museum and all the information you need to visit from the Catalina Island Chamber of Commerce & Visitors Bureau and from Catalina Express.

The Catalina Island Museum currently is showing Houdini: Terror on the Magic Isle in the The Ada Blanche Wrigley Schreiner Building's Artists' Plaza Gallery through October 7.

JAWS: The Art of Fear in Filmmaking exhibition opened April 21 in The Ada Blanche Wrigley Schreiner Building and John and Hasmik Mgrdichian Gallery through September 16.

See How a Shipbuilder Lived at Muller House Museum

Muller House Museum has moved around quite a bit. And now it has found a home on a bluff overlooking the Waterfront. Shipbuilder William Muller purchased the house in 1901 and his family grew up there. Nowadays it's a museum operated by the San Pedro Bay Historical Society and is open the first and second Sundays of the month. Make a visit and find out about all the moves this house has made.

Ports O' Call Restaurant Wins 'Best' Awards

It hasn't been confirmed, but it's being reported by reliable sources that Ports O' Call Waterfront Dining Restaurant has won at least seven awards in the upcoming South Bay Readers' Choice program sponsored by the Daily Breeze newspaper.

The awards the restaurant will reportedly be awarded include:

- Best Banquet Facility
- Best Buffet
- Favorite Fine Dining
- Favorite Family Restaurant
- Favorite Night Spot/Entertainment
- Favorite Happy Hour
- Favorite Seafood Restaurant

Ports O' Call last year also won the buffet and banquet facility awards, among others. And the restaurant has consistently won awards from the competition over the years.

The South Bay Readers' Choice Awards are determined via a poll that runs both in the print Daily Breeze and online.

It has been a favorite of the area since it opened in 1961. It offers happy hour Monday through Friday on the waterfront patio, lunch (and brunch off the menu) beginning at 10 a.m. during the week, and lunch and dinner on weekends.

Ports O' Call Restaurant is located at 1200 Nagoya Way in the area that was formerly Ports O' Call Village on the Waterfront. The phone number is 310-833-3553 and the web address is www.PortsOCallDining.com.

Welcome to San Pedro

It's a great place to live

With new developments and a great climate, San Pedro is becoming one of Southern California's new favorite places to live. It's got great dining, entertainment, and shopping. Nice people. Lots of history.

So if you're new to the area or considering relocating, here are essential services to help get you started moving here. and settled in.
